

Name _____

Unit 5 PRONOUNS

Lesson 44: Relative Pronouns and Relative Adverbs (pp. 196–199)

Remember

A complex sentence is made up of two related ideas. In a complex sentence, a relative pronoun introduces the second idea when it is adding information about or describing the noun in the first idea. Who, which, that, whose, and whom are relative pronouns. A relative adverb tells where, when, or why.

Write the relative pronoun or relative adverb in parentheses that correctly completes each sentence.

1. A rake, a watering can, and a shovel are the tools that we need to garden. (who, that)
2. The girl whose birthday we are celebrating is eleven years old. (that, whose)
3. I will park the car where you tell me. (where, why)
4. Is that the teacher to whom you gave the paper? (which, whom)
5. We will decorate the cake when it is done baking. (when, where)
6. Susan said "Zhen bang," which means awesome in Chinese. (who, which)
7. The reason why you should not let go of your balloon is because it will fly away. (why, when)
8. Dark clouds usually appear when a storm is coming. (why, when)
9. The grandmother who lives in Texas is his mother's mother. (whose, who)
10. Put the coins in a safe place where you will remember them. (why, where)
11. They are trying to help the man whose car broke down. (which, whose)
12. The bird that is singing is a canary. (who, that)
13. Is that the coach whose team you are joining? (whom, whose)
14. I was the one whom he told about the festival. (which, whom)
15. This is the treehouse where the children like to play. (where, when)